

Graceful treefrog

Litoria gracilentata

Photo : Eva Ford, MRCCC

- One of our few green frogs, this species is stunning in its contrasting green and yellow, with a granular texture to the skin.
- A yellowed ridge runs from the nostril over the eye and tympanum (ear drum).
- Males call during and after rain and puff up their body to call, spreading their hind legs to display purple flashes.
- These frogs are found in lowland areas preferring temporary waters in or near streams or flooded grassland pools.